

ADVANCED SOLUTIONS FOR FINANCE

Process Financial Documents Faster

We spend too much time manually collating hard-copy credit reports, bank statements, and more during the application process. Is there a way to streamline this to be more efficient?

To approve loans, we must fax, e-mail, and archive applications to the loan department, head loan officer, and underwriters. Can we expedite this process?

When incomplete applications are submitted, they can be kicked back and we have to begin the process all over. How can we ensure our forms are accurately and completely filled out?

We send and receive thousands of applications, new account requests, and other financial documents each day. To misplace or lose one document would be a critical error for us.

Canon and its partners offer hardware and software solutions to help streamline workflows for financial institutions. These can help your staff eliminate repetitive and labor-intensive tasks while making your office work more efficiently.

With Canon Workflow Composer and eCopy, you can transform labor-intensive manual tasks into custom, one-touch buttons. The solutions also make it easy to add critical index information to processed documents so that they integrate seamlessly into back office systems.

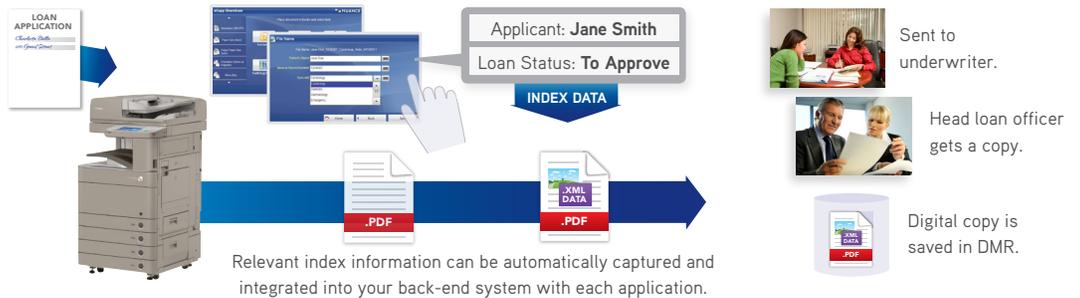

Assemble Loan Applications Quickly

Canon solutions such as eCopy can help financial institutions assemble loan applications more quickly and easily. For example, bank personnel can scan multiple forms and combine them with other electronic documents to create a single, cohesive loan application ready for processing.

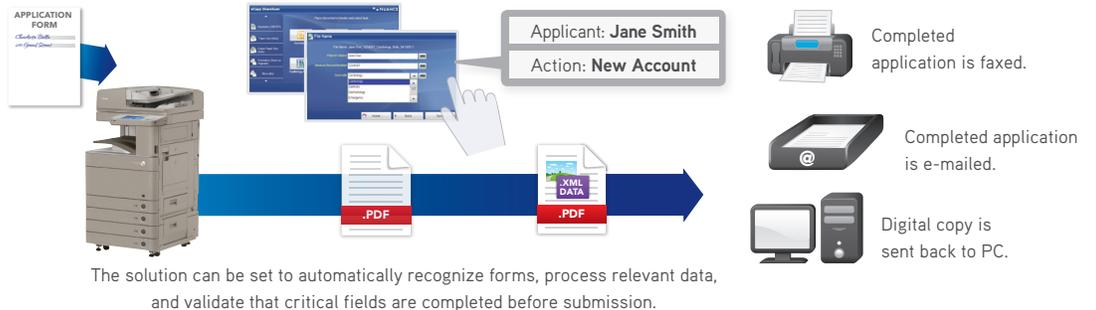

Fast-Track Loan Application Approval Processes

With customized one-touch buttons in place, loan applications can be scanned, then routed to specific, authorized personnel such as a loan officer or underwriter and then saved to a designated network folder — all in one automatic, error-free process where documents don't get lost.

Streamline New Account Workflows

With Canon and eCopy solutions, you can combine repetitive manual tasks into easy-to-use one-touch buttons. As an example, for new account workflows, bank personnel can now print, scan, ensure all data fields are complete, then send applications to multiple e-mail addresses and fax destinations, including their own PCs.
