- Bidirectional feedback between the device and a connected PC will be a great asset to remote administrators
- MEAP open architecture technology provides tight integration with uniFLOW and third-party solutions

“The Canon imageRUNNER ADVANCE 4535i is best characterized by its user friendly interface and productivity enhancing feature set,” said George Mikolay, KPI’s Associate Director of A3/Production for Keypoint Intelligence. “Users can create profiles in the driver and program one-touch presets via the control panel to manage workflows more efficiently, and customize the 10.1” color touchscreen control panel UI to their preference via the MyADVANCE. This, combined with the Quick Menu screen—where users can program and save up to 60 jobs—adds up to a device that can keep information flowing and workers moving.”

“The Canon imageRUNNER ADVANCE 4535i offers excellent reliability, long lasting and easy to replace consumables, and consistent and high-quality output,” said Joe Ellerman, U.S. Manager of Lab Operations for KPI - Buyers Lab. “The device’s toner and photoconductor yields are roughly 30 and 40 percent higher compared to other competitive devices BLI has evaluated. The device also impressed with a flawless performance during BLI’s 135,000-impression, 13,500-scan durability test and high quality printed and copied output.”
