

Canon a Leader in Managed Document Services (MDS)

Canon, an industry leader renowned for its outstanding imaging technologies and workflow solutions, offers its expertise through Managed Document Services (MDS). With its systematic approach to print management and document workflow, Canon adds remarkable value to businesses. Its MDS can help control costs, energize business results, increase productivity and user satisfaction, simplify device management, maximize uptime, and enhance security. It can also help heighten environmental sustainability.

Industry analyst firm Gartner, Inc. has named Canon as a leader in its 2013 Magic Quadrant Report for Managed Print Services (MPS).

The five phases of Canon MDS provide the framework to remain flexible and customize its managed document solutions to help meet the ever-changing needs of customers while having the back-end infrastructure that enables implementation on a global scale. Canon's broad portfolio of hardware, software, and value-added services is capable of tying into any managed document services engagement.

Canon's multifunction imageRUNNER ADVANCE Series is an important component of a comprehensive MDS strategy, providing streamlined platform that redefines how businesses access, share, and manage communications.
